

Runtime Results

After doing the runtime analysis the results show the `doublerAppend` function running consistently faster than the `doublerInsert` function with every size except `mediumArray`. The pattern observed is that in general the runtime for both functions tend to increase with array size, however the `doublerAppend` function scales better among all sizes with the exception of the `mediumArray` function.